

The decision made by Sinclair Broadcasting to air an unfair, irrelevant documentary about John Kerry and display it weeks before election is in extremely poor taste. The effort to support Pres. Bush's reelection is so transparent it insults the intelligence of its consumers who clearly see it for what it is.

If they would like to air this on their own, then Sinclair should not FORCE sub-stations to do the same.

Also, Sinclair has had the material ever since Vietnam, and for 30 years they choose to say nothing. That alone shows their true motives.

I must express my apprehension about the FCC, which is now run by the unqualified Mike Powell - an anti-trust lawyer who supports media consolidation and has refused any public hearings despite holding many closed door meetings with broadcasting companies.

Please consider acting in the public's behalf as opposed to the commercial interests working to re-elect President Bush and FCC Chairmen's father Colin Powell.

Thank you!
